DISCUSSION OF THE EVIDENCE:The Agency representative testified that:

- The agency representative stated that the appellant applied for Home and Community Waiver services during September 2014. The appellant was found not to require a Preventive Level of Care. (LOC). The Medicaid Core waiver requires that an individual meet the Preventive LOC criteria in order to qualify for a limited range of home and community-based services.
- The agency therefore denied the appellant's request for Prior Authorization for a Preventive (LOC) by notice dated September 3, 2014. (Copy of notice submitted).
- The agency representative stated that agency policy #0399.12.03 identifies what requirements are needed for an individual to meet a Preventive LOC for the Home and Community Based Services Program. (HCBS).
- The beneficiary must have a chronic illness or disability that requires at a minimum supervision of 2 or more Activities of Daily Living.
- Beneficiaries who meet the Preventive LOC requirement shall be eligible for a limited range of home and community based services and supports along with the health care they are entitled to receive as recipients of Medicaid.
- Preventive care services optimize and promote beneficiary health, safety and independence through an array of care interventions that alleviate or minimize symptoms and functional limitations. Accordingly the goal of Preventive services is to delay or avert institutionalization or more expensive and intensive home and community based care.
- The agency representative stated that to qualify the Office of Medical Review (OMR) must determine that one or more Preventive services will improve or maintain the ability of the beneficiary to perform ADL's or IADL's and/or delay or mitigate the need for intensive home or institutional based care.
- Preventive services include homemaker services, general household tasks including basic home and household assistance for a health condition or to address functional limitations. The services include meal preparation, essential shopping, laundry and cleaning for beneficiaries without social support systems able to perform services for them.
- Preventive services also provide minor environmental modifications to the home including grab bars, hand held shower and also converter valve, raised toilet seats, and or simple devices or appliances such as eating utensils, transfer bath bench, shower chair, aids for personal care and adaptations intended for health or safety.
- Personal care assistive services provide direct support in the home to beneficiaries in performing tasks they are functionally unable to complete independently due to disability based on the individual's service and spending plan. These services may include personal assistance with activities of daily living such as grooming, personal hygiene, toileting, bathing, dressing and assistance with monitoring health status and physical condition.

- Preventive services also provide assistance with preparation and eating of meals but not the cost of meals. Assistance with housekeeping activities such as bed making, dusting, laundry, cleaning, and grocery shopping. Assistance with transferring, ambulation, and use of special mobility devices.
- The agency representative stated that the records reviewed included a Provider Medical Statement, (PM-1) which was completed by Dr. Malik on July 30, 2014.
- She stated that the PM-1 indicates that the appellant is diagnosed with Morbid Obesity, Schizo-Affective Disorder, Mild Cognitive Impairment, Hyperlipidemia and Hypertension. The doctor indicates that the appellant is independent in all ADL's, transfer, ambulation, bed mobility, dressing, bathing, toileting, and personal hygiene.
- The appellant has total dependence regarding medication management which he is followed for by the Providence Center.
- The Case Management Assessment (CMA) indicates that the appellant requires extensive assistance with homemaking, meal preparation and shopping. He is able to go out unaccompanied and is able to utilize public transportation. Presently he is taking medication for his Schizo-Affective Disorder and Mild Cognitive Impairment.
- He is completely independent with all ADL'S bathing, transfer, dressing, eating, and toileting.
- His IADL's indicate that he requires extensive assistance with cleaning, laundry, shopping and limited assistance with meal preparation.
- She stated that based on review of the objective medical evidence received the appellant did not meet the LOC needed for Preventive services.

The appellant's testified:

- He stated that he continues to see Dr. Malik and he also continues to receive treatment with the Providence Center. He stated that he sees a Dr. Silva at the Providence Center who prescribes his medications.
- He stated that he understands the criteria for the Preventive waiver and does not want to submit any further medical information at this time.

Findings of Fact:

- The appellant has been living alone in the community and he applied for CORE Waiver services through the Preventive Waiver during September 2014.
- The appellant applied for services through the Medicaid CORE Waiver and the agency determined that the appellant did not meet the Preventive LOC criteria required for the CORE Waiver.
- The agency notified the appellant by notice dated September 3, 2014 that he did not qualify for Preventive CORE Waiver services.
- The appellant filed a timely appeal of the agency denial notice.

CONCLUSION:

The issue to be decided is whether the appellant is eligible for Preventive services through the Medicaid Core Waiver.

A review of Agency Policy regarding the Core Waiver determines that the authority to provide home and community-based services transitions from the authority found in 1915 (c) of the Social Security Act to that found in Section 1115 of the Act on July 1, 2009. The transition in authority allows the State to implement new needs-based levels of care, expand the number of individuals that can access long-term care services, and increase the availability of home and community based services to beneficiaries as an alternative to institutionalization. Home and community-based long-term care services and supports (HCB/LTC Services) are in addition to the services otherwise provided under the Medicaid program. To achieve the goal of rebalancing the long-term care system, the Global Consumer Choice Compact Waiver allows beneficiaries to obtain the Medicaid services they need in the most appropriate least restrictive setting. The types of long-term care available to beneficiaries are categorized as institutional and home and community-based. To qualify for Medicaid-funded long-term care services under the Global Waiver, a person must meet the general and financial eligibility requirements as well as meet certain clinical eligibility criteria. Clinical eligibility is determined by an assessment of a beneficiary's level of care needs.

The processes for determining clinical eligibility are based on a comprehensive assessment that includes an evaluation of the medical, social, physical, and behavioral health needs of each beneficiary. The assessment shall be tailored to the needs of the beneficiaries' services and, as such, may vary from one process to the next.

Based on agency policies within section 0399 Waiver services are available to qualified long-term care beneficiaries who have been determined to have a highest, high or preventive level of care need.

In this matter the agency representative has testified that there is no clinical evidence in the record that the appellant meets the Preventive Level of Care. The agency representative submits that the appellant's case manager reviewed the appellant's functional abilities during a June 2014 home visit. The agency representative also reviewed a Physician's Medical Statement which was completed by the appellant's doctor and indicates that the appellant is independent with all ADL's with the exception of medication management. The agency representative submits that according to the agency CMA the appellant needs extensive assistance with cleaning, laundry and shopping, and limited assistance with meal preparation. The appellant is independent with ambulation, bathing, transfers, eating, dressing, toileting, and medication management.

The appellant testified that he continues to see Dr. Malik and that Dr. Silva from the Providence Center assists him with medication management.

Review of agency policy 0399.12.03 determines that beneficiaries shall be deemed to have a Preventive LOC when they require assistance with meal preparation, essential shopping, laundry and cleaning. The beneficiary may also requires minor modifications to the home such as grab bars and other simple devices such as transfer bath bench, shower chair, aids for personal care and other minor modifications that improve home accessibility adaptation, health or safety.

Based on the assessment records reviewed and lack of qualifying documentation from any of the appellant's medical care providers this Appeals Officer finds that the appellant does not meet the Preventive LOC criteria for Medicaid Core Waiver Services; therefore his request for relief is denied.

The service classifications designed to reflect the scope and intensity of the beneficiary's needs in this category are as follows:

Accordingly, these beneficiaries have access to an array of community-based core services required to meet their needs specified in the individual plan of care.

- c) Preventive need. Beneficiaries who do not yet need LTC but are at risk for the NF level of care have access to services targeted at preventing admission, re-admissions or reducing lengths of stay in a skilled nursing facility.
